Our Commitment to Privacy

The Air Cadet Foundation of British Columbia is committed to maintaining the security, confidentiality and privacy of personal information of any identifiable individual which information is under its control. The Air Cadet Foundation of British Columbia has always respected such privacy and remains committed to do so in the future. The Air Cadet Foundation of British Columbia has produced the following written Privacy Policy to document its on-going commitment to protect the privacy of all information which is, or in the future comes within, its control, respecting identifiable individuals involved with the air cadet movement. This Privacy Policy has been developed to ensure The Air Cadet Foundation of British Columbia complies with the requirements of the British Columbia Personal Information Protection Act (PIPA).

Scope of Privacy Policy

This Privacy Policy applies to The Air Cadet Foundation of British Columbia. This Privacy Policy addresses personal information about identifiable individuals and does not apply to the information collected, used or disclosed with respect to corporate or commercial entities.

Although The Air Cadet Foundation of British Columbia, may chose to protect the privacy of personal information that is not protected by PIPA, this Privacy Policy does not impose any limits on The Air Cadet Foundation of British Columbia with respect to the collection, use or disclosure of personal information which is not protected by PIPA, examples of which include the following types of personal information:

- business contact information which means information to enable an individual at a place of business to be contacted, such as the name, title or position of the individual, business telephone number, business address, business email or business fax number of the individual;
- information which PIPA deems there to be consent for such as the collection, use and disclosure of information that is voluntarily provided by an individual and at the time it is provided the purpose would be considered to be obvious to a reasonable person;
- publicly available information recognized under PIPA, such as the name, address, telephone number and other personal information of a subscriber that appears in a telephone directory or is available through directory assistance, if the directory or directory assistance service is available to the public and the subscriber is permitted to refuse to have his personal information included in the directory or made available by directory assistance.

ACFBC Privacy Policy

Definitions

In this Policy:

The Air Cadet Foundation of British Columbia means The Air Cadet Foundation of British Columbia hereinafter known as ACFBC.

"collection" means the act of gathering, acquiring, or obtaining personal information from any source, including third parties, by any means.

ACFBC Privacy Policy

Our Ten Privacy Principles

1. Accountability

ACFBC is responsible to protect the personal information under its control. ACFBC has designated a Privacy Officer who is responsible for ACFBC compliance with this Privacy Policy.

The Privacy Officer for ACFBC is its secretary who may delegate such duty to another individual and accordingly, such other individual may be responsible for the collection, use and disclosure of personal information. Should such delegation of duty occur the position name or title of such other individual will be made available to the public.

The Secretary of ACFBC may be contacted at:

The Air Cadet Foundation of British Columbia,
#2-7630 Montreal Street, Delta, BC V4K 0A7
Phone: 604 – 732 – 9119; Fax 604 – 732 – 9115
Email: aircadetfoundation.bc@gmail.com

ACFBC has and will continue to adopt and approve procedures to protect personal information, receive and respond to complaints and inquiries, train staff regarding policies and procedures and communicate policies and procedures to you.

2. Purposes

ACFBC collects, uses and discloses your personal information for the following reasons:

- to ensure that in the process of selecting individuals to be involved with the air cadet foundation, that individuals are selected who are best suited to make such a contribution. It is important in this selection process to ascertain an individual's previous volunteer activities, as well as any special skills such individual will bring to the ACFBC. In addition, when an individual is selected for a position of trust such as direct involvement with air cadets, carrying out fundraising activities or being responsible for ACFBC's funds, it is important that the individual possess the appropriate skills for such a position. All individuals, will, in addition to providing ACFBC with details such as names, addresses and phone numbers, be required to provide ACFBC with a criminal record check to ensure the integrity of ACFBC and the air cadet movement as a whole;
- to enable ACFBC to provide and administer services needed and requested within ACFBC within the Province of British Columbia;
- to comply with legal and regulatory requirements;

To carry out its purposes, ACFBC may be required to share personal information with third parties, such as those referred to above.

You may instruct ACFBC to refrain from collecting, using or disclosing your personal information in the ways described above at any time by providing written notification to the ACFBC Privacy Officer.

When personal information that has been collected is to be disclosed for a purpose not previously identified, the new purpose shall be identified prior to disclosure and consent for same shall be obtained from you unless the use is authorized or required by PIPA or other laws.

ACFBC Privacy Policy

3. Consent

ACFBC will obtain your consent to collect, use or disclose personal information except where ACFBC is authorized or required by PIPA or other laws to do so without consent or where consent is deemed to have been obtained. For example, ACFBC may collect, use or disclose personal information without your knowledge or consent where:

- ACFBC is collecting information that is clearly in the interests of the individual and consent cannot be obtained in a timely way;
- ACFBC is required or authorized by law to collect the information;
- ACFBC reasonably expects that collection with consent would compromise the availability or accuracy of the personal information and the collection is reasonable for an investigation or proceeding; or
- ACFBC requires the information for the medical treatment of the individual and the individual is unable to give consent.

Your consent can be expressed, implied, deemed, written or verbal and given through an authorized representative such as an attorney, representative under a Representation agreement, guardian, lawyer or other agent.

Consent may be provided through inaction, such as when you fail to notify ACFBC that you do not wish your personal information collected, used or disclosed following reasonable notice that ACFBC intends to do so.

You may withdraw consent at any time, subject to legal or contractual restrictions, provided that reasonable notice of withdrawal of consent is given to ACFBC. On receipt of notice of withdrawal of consent, ACFBC will inform you of the likely consequences of the withdrawal of consent, which may include the inability of ACFBC to provide certain services for which that information is necessary.

4. Limits on Collection of Personal Information

ACFBC will limit collection of information to that which is reasonable and necessary to carry out its purposes and which is reasonable and necessary for the purposes consented to by you. ACFBC will also collect information as authorized or required by PIPA or other laws.

5. Limits for Using, Disclosing and Retaining Personal Information

- Personal information will only be used or disclosed for the purposes set out above and as authorized by PIPA and other laws.
- ACFBC will keep personal information used to make a decision affecting an individual for a minimum of at least one year after using it to make a decision.
- ACFBC will destroy, erase or make anonymous documents or other records containing personal information as soon as it is reasonable to assume that the original purpose is no longer being served by retention of the information and retention is no longer necessary for legal or business purposes.
- ACFBC will take due care when destroying personal information so as to prevent unauthorized disclosure of the information.

ACFBC Privacy Policy

6. Accuracy

ACFBC will make a reasonable effort to ensure that personal information it has collected or is using or disclosing is accurate and complete. In some cases, ACFBC relies on the individual to ensure that certain information, such as an address or telephone number, is current, complete and accurate.

If you demonstrate the inaccuracy or incompleteness of personal information, ACFBC will amend the information as required. If appropriate, ACFBC will send the amended information to third parties to whom the information has been disclosed.

When a challenge regarding the accuracy of personal information is not resolved to your satisfaction, the Privacy Officer will annotate the personal information under its control with a note that the correction was requested but not made.

7. Safeguarding Personal Information

ACFBC protects the personal information in its custody or control by making reasonable security arrangements to prevent unauthorized access, collection, use, disclosure, copying, modification, disposal or similar risks.

ACFBC will take reasonable steps, through contractual or other reasonable means, to ensure that a comparable level of personal information protection is implemented by its suppliers and agents who work with ACFBC. Some specific safeguards include:

- electronic measures such as passwords and firewalls;
- regular reviews of processes in place to safeguard personal information; and
- investigative measures where ACFBC has reasonable grounds to believe that personal information is being inappropriately collected, used or disclosed

Confidentiality and security are not assured when information is transmitted through e-mail, fax or other wireless communication. ACFBC will not be responsible for any loss or damage suffered as a result of a breach of security and/or confidentiality when information is transmitted to ACFBC by e-mail, fax or other wireless communication or when ACFBC transmits such information by such means at an individual's request.

8. Openness

ACFBC is open about the policies and procedures it uses to protect personal information. Information about these policies and procedures will be made available in writing and electronically. However, to ensure the integrity of our security procedures and business practices, ACFBC will not disclose sensitive information about its policies and procedures.

Upon request, ACFBC will make available a description of the type of personal information held by ACFBC, and a general description of its use and disclosure.

ACFBC Privacy Policy

9. Providing Access

You have a right to access your personal information held by ACFBC.

Upon written request and authentication of identity, ACFBC will provide you with your other personal information under its control, information about the ways in which that information is being used and a description of the individuals and organizations to whom that information has been disclosed.

ACFBC will make the information available within 30 days or provide written notice where additional time is required to fulfill the request.

In some situations, ACFBC may not be able to provide access to certain personal information. This may be the case where, for example, disclosure would reveal personal information about another individual, the personal information is protected by solicitor/client privilege, the information was collected for the purposes of an investigation or ACFBC is prevented by law from providing access to the personal information.

Where an access request is refused, ACFBC will notify you in writing, document the reasons for refusal and outline further steps which are available to you.

10. Compliance

Any inquiries, complaints or questions regarding this Privacy Policy should be directed in writing to the Privacy Officer. ACFBC will give appropriate notice of any amendments to this Policy.
